During our years at Battle Ground, there have been certain experiences which we cherish more than others; so also it is with the relationships we have developed with many of the faculty members.

Rod McKuen expressed this emotion so poignantly when he wrote:

"... Think of all the men who never knew the answers, think of all of those who never even cared. Still there are some who ask why, who want to know, who dare to try. Every now and then we meet that kind of man here he comes again and now he's gone."

For his constant companionship, his guidance in our activities, and his understanding of young people—we dedicate the 1969 CANNON BALL to Mr. Tony Cobb.

... 9 am Youth and 9 long to be Educated

Yes, I long to be educated. Education is the essence of manhood.

I seek a complete education. I want learning to fill every cell in my brain. I need to be secure with my knowledge.

I love life. I want to grasp all things it has to offer, good and bad, and learn from them.

That's what it's all about, isn't it—Getting an education from books and from people?

Administration

A school can only be as good as its faculty. At BGA the men who are challenged with the task of education are of a truly select minority. Teachers are made of many things: perseverance, dedication, and a sense of justice to name a few. thankless hours of toil and frustration must go into the life of an educator; few professions demand such a spectrum of talent. These are men who care, care enough to give of themselves so that we may receive the benefit of their knowledge. Upon their shoulders rests the destiny of youth, the leaders of tomorrow. The pride which these men share and the time spent in teaching and coaching boys, both mentally and physically, is but a surface indication of their sacrifice. The select group of students who are privileged to be under the guidance of these men are receiving a firm foundation for the security of their future. During these impressionable years, perhaps no other group of men contributes so much to the formation of a useful citizen; for these reasons our years under their influence will always be remembered.

Varsity Football

Summer ended early for thirty of Battle Ground Academy's athletes; football practice started in the first part of August. We arrived at the gym on that first Monday to be greeted by Coach Franklin; some of us were in shape, but the vast majority of us had neglected the summer conditioning program. No one knew what to expect. Coach Franklin gave us a dramatic talk and laid it on the line: We weren't as good as some of the teams we were to play, we had a tough schedule, but with grit and determination we would go through the season playing with reckless abandon. The fighting spirit of Battle Ground teams was to be tested.

It was hot in August. Inside the football uniforms it must have been a hundred degrees. We were, however, lucky in some respects: fishnet jerseys, limeade breaks, blister breaks, and occasional rests during practice. We learned how to divebomb in the airplane drill, how to go at hundred yard dash speed, how to break down, and how to find the shade trees at the end of the practice field. When we arrived one Sunday, packed and ready to go to camp, we were told that Coach Gentry was to be our new coach and that we were going to learn to play tough football. We were underdogs, but we would surprise some people.

Senior Mike Williams Halfback

Practices were more spirited as Coach Gentry wanted to make football more fun for us. He instilled confidence in us; the improvement was remarkable. We thought we were ready to play Jackson and anticipated a surprise for the folks who had come to watch us get beat.

We went into the Jackson game with high hopes; if we could upset them, we would be on our way to a good season. We won the toss and got the ball first. After failing to get a first down, we had to punt. We intercepted a pass on their first play, but couldn't capitalize on our break. We fumbled the ball back to them, and later they scored on a long run. They had several long runs and led at the half 34-0. After enduring the first of Coach Gentry's locker room talks, we went out and stiffened, allowing Jackson only one more touchdown in the game. The aroused defense was led by Doug Thompson and Nate Greene.

Ends Jerry McGinnis and Jeff Hoover stop a Madison back.

Fullback Nate Greene breaks through the Lebanon line behind the blocking of Drew Oliver.

Charley Benz End

The Springfield game started out almost as badly; they scored twice early in the first quarter. We bounced back after the Jackets' third touchdown in the second quarter and played Springfield to a standstill the rest of the game. Mike Williams and Charlie Benz did well and brought mention from the coaches.

Deshler came to Franklin and we were ready for them. They pulled off some long scoring plays and had some good breaks and jumped out 20-0. Showing our mettle, we drove down the field and scored when Harry Blackburn went over from the three yard line. We held them for most of the game, but our mistakes cost us this 27-7 game.

We went up to Clarksville on a cold night to play one of the better teams in the state. Proving their high ranking, Clarksville, on end runs and a strong passing game, beat us by a score of 56-0. The next game was with Donelson, one of the better teams in Nashville. With two young sophomores, Johnny Phipps and Brad Thomason, in the lineup we gave the Dons a run for their money. An aroused Wildcat defense, after early mistakes, held the vaunted Donelson offense to only two touchdowns. Jerry McGinnis and Jeff Hoover, the ends, contained their wide attack; our secondary, Mike Williams, Harry Blackburn, Nate Greene, and Paul Muncy, covered their receivers. We had trouble launching a sustained drive, but got down close twice and could not score. Coach Gentry told us that close did not count and that we must prepare for our next game.

We were up for the Madison game. They were rated as one of the best in their division, but we were determined to spoil their homecoming. Reversing our normal pattern, we played well in the first half, trailing 7-0 at halftime. We had been moving the ball well on the ground and through the air, and our defense was strong. However, Madison had other ideas and came back and won 27-7. The game was much closer than the score indicated and we were disappointed. Nate Greene scored our only touchdown.

Paul Muncy Split End

Josh Huffman holds as Bill Smith attempts an extra point.

Let down from the week before, we let Murfreesboro trample us 47-0. Chris Dodson and Skip Beadle got to play, being the only bright spots in the game. We pulled our belts tighter and, after a rigorous week of practice, got prepared for Lebanon.

We played Lebanon a good game, falling 34-14. Our pass defense broke down twice for long scores, but the offense finally gelled. Mike Williams got away on a 76 yard run, Nate Greene pounded the line for yardage, and Brad Thomason connected with Paul Muncy on several passes. Charlie Benz, Allen Gentry, and Buddy Allen opened gaping holes in Lebanon's lines. This was one of our best games, but we weren't to be satisfied with less than a win.

We lost to Litton in our next to last game of the season. After playing well the week before, we again relaxed and trailed 27-7 at halftime. After intermission, inspired by the blocking of Buddy Allen and Drew Oliver, we struck quickly at the Lions and cut the gap to 27-21 to get back in the game. However, a fleet Litton back returned the ensuing kickoff for a touchdown and let the wind from our sails. Philpot, Greene, and Williams ran well for the Wildcats, but our defense let us down.

Behind good protection, Brad Thomason fires a pass against Donelson.

Hillsboro—our last chance. It was a beautiful day till just before kickoff when a steady downpour turned the field into a swamp. Hillsboro scored on a quick pass and held on desperately as we tried to come back. Although we played our most inspired game, we could not overcome both the Burros and the mud and were defeated again 6-0.

Battle Ground defense stops Hillsboro back short of a first down.

Although we of the 1968 Battle Ground Wildcats cannot point to our record with pride, the year was not without merit. We did not win on the scoreboard, but most of the time we could leave the field with the satisfaction of having played as well as we could. We came back every week for each game and learned the meaning of sacrifice, dedication, and pride.

B-Jeam

The primary purpose of any B-team is to train prospective players for future varsity teams and to teach the younger boys the fundamentals of the game. Not failing in this objective, the 1968 Battle Ground B-team has given several promising football players a chance to prove themselves to the coaches. Although not compiling a winning record, the fine coaching job by Mr. Smithson and Mr. Kennedy was evident by the marked improvement throughout the season

The defense sparkled, emerging as the most outstanding part of the Junior Wildcats. Led by Meredith Shannon, Ralph Duke, and Tom Miner, the headhunting unit specialized in wrecking the offense of the opposition. Hampered by injuries to the quarterbacks, the B.G.A. offense could not seem to generate sustained drives.

Nonetheless, Gene Lovell and John Harper along with Ham Wallace and Turner Snodgrass distinguished themselves in the backfield. These and other boys may be making valuable contributions to the varsity next year.

Varsity Basketball

Preparations for the 1968-69 basketball season were begun immediately following the end of last year's season. Coach Smith planned a full summer workout schedule for varsity aspirants. Each Monday night during the summer the team assembled at the gym for a practice session, which, on account of the heat, was concluded by a ten minute dip in the pool. These practices were much fun for the team, but more important, they helped draw the team closer together. Both Coach Smith and the team were determined to make this season a more successful one than last.

When school began, the players who did not play football participated in the cross country program, which aided greatly in conditioning the boys. The first couple of weeks of practice did not now need to be wasted with running drills and calisthentics. Although more boys than ever turned out for the opening try-outs, each boy was given an ample opportunity to catch the watchful eyes of Coaches Smith and Gentry. As the number of players dwindled, daily scrimmage games went on, some intrasquad and some against Nashville teams. All in all, the team was better prepared than in recent years for the beginning of the season. Experience was abundant, but size was lacking. Practically every team which B.G.A. played had at least as big, and more often bigger players.

On the night of November 22, 1968, the season began as Summertown invaded George I. Briggs Athletic Center. B.G.A. beat the Eagles by seven points, but the players showed first game jitters, missing several easy shots and committing several floor mistakes. After this opening performance, the Wildcats hosted strong Ryan. The week long Thanksgiving break showed its effects as this erratically played game went down on the loss column. Hillsboro Williamson County was next on the agenda, and the Cats registered a rather lopsided 80-25 win. Truman Harper, Bill Smith, Jeff Hoover, Houston Moran, and Tommy Harwell held the Indians scoreless throughout the third quarter. The easy victory perhaps made the team a bit too complacent as they met a powerful Perry County team the next night at Linden. The great height advantage of the opposing players proved to be too much for the Wildcats who fell, 88-55. Howard and M.B.A. were next on the schedule, and the Wildcats lost both of these hardly fought contests. Hoping to improve by the Christmas break, the team worked hard and gave much better performances at home against Hume Fogg and at Peabody. Alternate Captain Tommy Ashcraft played one of his better games against Hume Fogg and Captain Rick Francis did well against Peabody. As in last year's M.T.I.T. at Franklin, B.G.A. had to face Lebanon, ranked seventh in the state. Again, the outsized Cats could not stay with the opposition on the boards. However, except for the third quarter, the game was a close one even though B.G.A. lost.

ross town rival Franklin hosted the Blue and Gold next. Although it was a close game for the first other quarters, the Rebels took advantage of eral Moor mistakes by B.G.A. and went out in from by the at the buzzer. The Wildcats again played tillsboro Williamson County and won by a great margin. Once again, the reserves played brilliantly throughout the game. In particular, Nate Greene played well both offensively and defen-The team entertained M.U.S. the next afternoon and, with adept ball handler Rick Bennett leading the way, gave their best performance of the season thus far, only to lose by five points after coming from eleven behind at the first quarter.

The B.G.A. cagers next visited Summertown, where a rousing come-from-behind surge was led by Rick Francis, who had nineteen points. Tim Powers, Tom Ashcraft, and Jim Witherspoon had eighteen, fifteen, and fourteen rebounds respec-tively. The following night the Cats met Hume Fogg at West High School, where the team played well but were outgunned by the Petway brothers, Raymond and Gail Gillespie.

Jeff Hoover tips one in against M.B.A.

The M.B.A. Big Red next visited Briggs Athletic Center, and the Wildcats were determined not to give a repeat performance of their earlier loss. B.G.A. lost a nine point lead in the fourth quarter, and the game went into overtime. However the terrific outside shooting of the M.B.A. guards proved to be too much for the Cats as B.G.A. snatched defeat from the jaws of victory. Some teams would have been disheartened by this run of bad luck, but the Wildcats came back. Battling number five Clarksville in their own gym to a 50-45 decision was probably the high point of the season. Being a 37 point underdog and losing by only five is quite an accomplishment. Hotshooting Murfreesboro rid-dled the Wildcat defense in a Tuesday night away game. The outstanding student support could not stop a 64% field goal percentage by the Tigers. Lipscomb was next in another away game. Tim Powers was magnificent in defeat, scoring nineteen points and pulling down many rebounds.

In an attempt to better their record in the last regular season game of the year, the Blue and Gold hosted Howard, who had dealt the Cats a stinging defeat earlier in the season. For seniors Rick Francis, Tommy Ashcraft, Truman Harper, Tim Powers, and Jim Witherspoon, this game would be their last in the B.G.A. gym. These seniors built up a lead, lost it, but ran it out to nine points before the game was over. It was great to end the season on a winning note and a good way for the boys to get ready for the upcoming district tournament.

The opening game of the tournament was against Bethesda. Sporting the number eight scorer in the state, the Bethesda team was gunning for an upset. A huge crowd of students attended the game at the Franklin gym and gave much needed vocal support. The Cats built up a sizeable lead in the first half, but could muster no offense in the second, and Bethesda came back to within one point with five minutes to go. But, similar to the Howard game, the Wildcats pulled out to a seven point lead at the end of the game.

Forward Tommy Ashcraft puts in two more.

Francis goes high for a layup against Summertown.

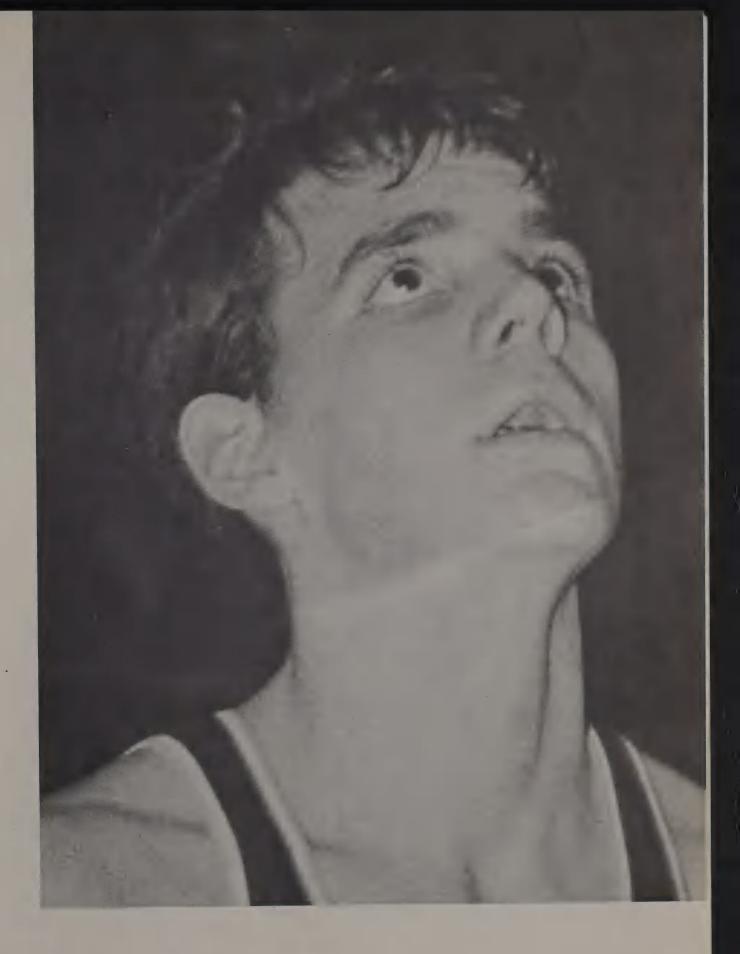

Houston Moran drives for a layup on M.U.S.

Forced to play tournament favorite Columbia the following Saturday, the team gave its all in preparation. At game time, it seemed that the whole city of Columbia had come to see the game. Possessing a three inch height advantage per man, the Lions began by grabbing every rebound in sight. A second quarter surge brought the Wildcats to within seven points at halftime. However, the third quarter was fatal for the Wildcats as Columbia pulled away. Jim Witherspoon and Tim Powers ended their careers with eighteen and eleven points respectively, Tim had as many rebounds.

As the crowd filed slowly out of the gym above, the Wildcats retired to their dressing room after their last game. The team had known both victory and defeat during the season and could point with pride to their efforts in most games. For the seniors there was small consolation in the record, some consolation in individual achievements; for the others there was next year and there was spring football, which started Monday.

B-Jeam

The 1968-69 B-team basketball squad, coached by Bobby Gentry, amassed a 10-10 record. The team was composed entirely of sophomores with the exception of Chuck Cook, a junior, and should provide the varsity with several fine athletes.

The Wildcats played their first game after less than a week's practice and showed steady improvement throughout the year. They provided the fans with plenty of excitement, winning two games in a row by two points. They beat M.B.A. on a tip-in by Bob Armistead, and they beat Hume-Fogg on a last second shot by Bill Smith. The B-team was led by Bob Armistead, Brad Thomason, and Billy Anderson who had high games of 24 points, 15 points, and 20 points respectively. Battle Ground Academy should be proud of these boys for the fine job they did; they will make the future much brighter for the basketball teams of B.G.A.

Wrestling

Wrestling season arrived right on the heels of football season; it was dreaded by some, eagerly anticipated by others. Many of last year's wrestlers returned to attempt to give BGA a winning season for the team and to try to win individual honors in the tournament matches. Drew Oliver, David Gardner, Sterling Minor, Gene Lovell, Johnny Lucas, Barry Goodman, Bill Fisher and Rob Anderson returned to help newcomers Donny Cameron, Hanes Sparkman, Alan Duke, Mike Isaacson, and Charlie Warfield. Everyone wanted a winning season and was prepared to sacrifice to have one. The more experienced wrestlers gave the new boys instruction and moral support when they needed it, and an attitude of team spirit was cultivated. The team worked hard and, led by Captain David Gardner, were ready to "leave their guts on the mat" for Coach Gentry.

The first match was with Overton and, although the team had had little time to prepare, BGA won handily by a large margin. As the season progressed the competition got tougher, but so did the Wildcat wrestlers, and they did well against some of the best Nashville teams.

Near the middle of the season, the N.I.L. tournament was held at Glencliff High School, and BGA was well represented. Although Gene Lovell was the only wrestler to place in the finals, the team fared well as several first round victories were won by the Wildcats. After Christmas, the team received new uniforms and morale seemed to pick up in anticipation of the last half of the season. The boys worked hard and showed steady improvement; Gardner, Minor, and Lovell were consistent winners.

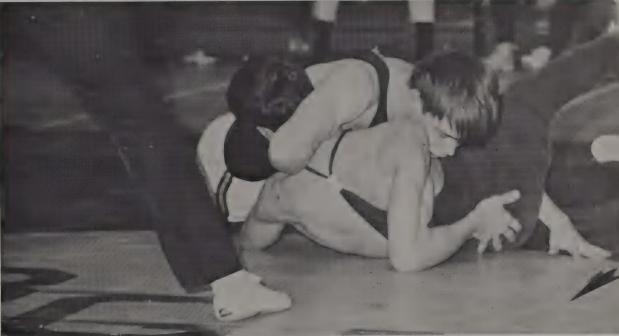

Then, the highlight of the entire year was at hand. The Regional Tournament is the goal to which all the wrestlers had been striving, so that they might make a good showing, for themselves as well as the team. In order to get ready for the tournament, extra time was spent in practice: more exercises, more wrestling match practice, and the grueling five minutes of solid running around the swimming pool. The boys deemed the extra effort to be justified, because everyone wanted to be prepared for their last big match.

Only a few of BGA's entries were eliminated in the first round; most made it at least as far as the quarter finals. However, because of the strong showing of some of the Nashville teams, only David Gardner was able to qualify for the state meet in Chattanooga after finishing third in his weight group in the region. David, one of the bright spots on this year's team, drew one of the best wrestlers in the state and was eliminated in his first match, ending the wrestling season at BGA Prospects for next year are favorable, with Lovell, Minor, Goodman, and Cameron returning to pace next year's team.

Wrestling is a hard and demanding sport, requiring physical and mental discipline on the part of its participants; although each man is part of a team, he is alone when he goes to wrestle his match. This year's team put forth every ounce of effort possible and earned a 6-6 won-lost record; they proved worthy of all the praise they have received and were excellent representatives of Battle Ground.

what was labeled a rebuilding year at the beginning of the season became a winning year before the end of it. With only three regulars from the senior high; Mark Scantlebury, Steve Faust, and Bill Tichenor, and a wealth of upcoming freshmen and eighth graders, this year's team proved itself to be the best BGA has had yet, chalking up six victories against three losses. This fine record was accomplished by defeating C.M.A. twice, S.M.A. twice, Ashville School once, and Baylor once. The tremendous improvement over last year's season was graphically demonstrated by the fact that the school record in every event was broken; with faster times, the boys found themselves placing higher in all the meets. Leading the way this year in individual scoring was Sam Wauford, followed closely by Steve Faust, Pierre Rogers,

Bill Tichenor, and Bryce Hickey.

Swimming

Coach Reynolds shows classic racing dive form as the swimming team stands by indifferently.

The team worked hard. Every day after school they headed toward the pool for their workout. Often it would hurt a little, but each member felt the long hours and muscle cramps were a small price to pay for victory. When practice was over everyone sprinted the last lap because they knew it was the end of practice; then came the pool deck so cold it numbed one's feet and the towel that did not quite cover enough. Most did not mind the long cold run to the locker room though, for there was always a hot shower and the warm heater waiting.

The meets were big events. No one was really nervous until Coach Reynolds gave his pep talk in the Phys Ed room. Somehow, then each boy realized that he had to win. Each tried hard to psyche himself up, but also tried to give his teammates encouragement. When his own event was called, the swimmer was alone on the blocks waiting for the gun that would release his tenseness and send him on his way; the gun fired and the swimmer dove into the water, straining every muscle in his surge for victory; the last lap and the swimmer drove hard for the wall that would mean the finish; the wall came, and, for BGA another victory.

It will be a surprise to many of the students to find out that B.G.A. has a horseback riding team. However, not only does B.G.A. have a riding team but it has a good one, as is attested by the gold trophy in Mr. Akin's office. Sponsored by Mrs. John Ingold, the four boys on the riding team participate in inter-school riding tournaments, competing against such teams as Harpeth Hall, Hillsboro, Two Rivers, and Peabody. In each tournament the teams compete in four areas: horsemanship, cross country, stadium jumping, and a team game. The team with the most points after all the events have been held is the winner and carries home the Much credit is due to Tommy trophy. McLaughlin, Tommy Magli, John Ingold, and Bootie Berry for their devotion in representing Battle Ground on horseback; but there is also, for the riding team, the envy of the students for anyone who is lucky enough to participate in anything against Harpeth Hall.

The track team began practice in early February under the direction of Mr. Danny Allen. There were many who could not start practice then because of basketball and spring football; and real practice with the whole team did not start until April 2, with Mr. Allen, Mr. Flatt, and Mr. Hassey running the boys till their tongues were hanging out. Practices seemed long, but the team knew they were really getting into shape.

Warmup for practice was always a mile or two, and then came the 220's, 440's, or 880's. The real inspiration of the team was John Lee who could run and run and run after everyone else had already stopped. Harry Blackburn could always be seen carrying around his "little" shot put, which he clung to as if it were made of gold. Then there were Mike Williams, Sterling Minor, Bill Armistead, Jim Harrison, Sammy Hollins, Jeff Hoover, Jack Witherspoon, and Gordon McDaniel working on hand-offs for the relay teams. John Lee, Monty Powell, Gerard McDonald, Randy Bratton, and others were the distance runners and were dedicated in their endeavors.

One of the highlights of practice was going by the kitchen and smelling the evening meal being prepared. This pleasure was particularly enjoyable because most members of the track had eaten sparingly at lunch in anticipation of the day's track practice.

Track

When it rained, it was always fun to run to the Confederate Cemetery, at which time one could see spring in all its beauty. The people driving by in cars would all stop, look, and point at the team while they were running on the road.

The track season only lasted five weeks but seemed to most boys like two or three months. The work was hard and many felt sorry for themselves and envious of other athletes who participated in what seemed easier sports. There were many out for track for the fun, many for the exercise, and many because they were required to if they wanted to play football next fall.

The veterans of the team, Lee, Williams, Armistead, Minor, and Blackburn knew that these were the roughest track practices they had ever been through, but their legs also told them that they had never been in better shape and were probably having the most fruitful track season of their high school days. The track team was grateful to the coaches (some times more than others) who seemed hard but were only thinking of the boys.

Cross Country

At Battle Ground, the sport of cross country has had an intermittent history. After two years' absence from the athletic program, cross country, under the direction of Coach Danny Allen, again represented BGA in athletic contests. Not a widely known sport, cross country demands strength and stamina from its participants, who deserve more credit than they receive; a meet is a test of endurance, the participants running a two mile course through a field or open area. Local meets were held at Willow Plunge; and, although they didn't fare too well as a team, BGA had several outstanding individual performances of which to be proud. The 1968 harriers compiled a 5 and 5 record and were led by Rick Bennett, Steve Faust, and Captain John Lee. Although often considered only a conditioning program for basketball players, cross country is an important facet of Battle Ground's athletic program.

Tennis

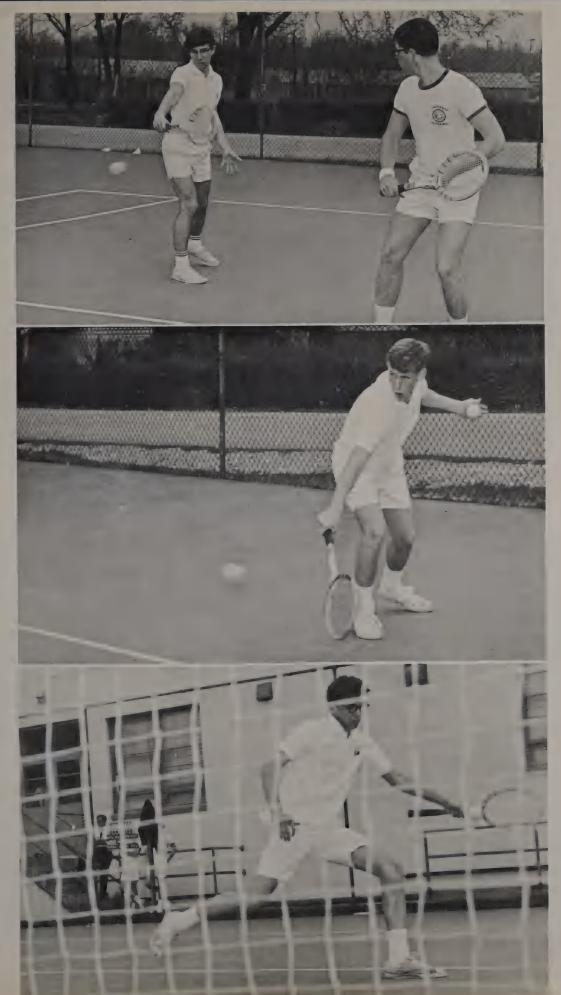

This year's tennis team featured both strength and experience. All eight lettermen returned from last year's team which compiled an 11-2 record. Although the schedule this year was a little tougher, even a better record was expected. There seemed little reason to doubt that the 1969 tennis team would be a top contender for regional and state honors.

Matches were held with the players ranked from one to six with their counterparts from the opposing team. While rank was not permanent, it remained fairly constant throughout the season. The number one man this year was junior Teddy Lee. Hopes were high that he could improve his performance of last year; fourth place in the region and a good showing in the state tournament.

Mr. Bunny Akin served in his first year as coach, instituting many changes. He constantly showed an interest in building a winning team and worked hard toward this end. It was a combination of his coaching and the consistent playing of the team members which brought about a successful campaign.

Golf

From the very start of the season, the prospects of the 1969 golf team were favorable. Past experience was plentiful, due to the return of veteran linksters Josh Huffman, Jimmy Witherspoon, Dewees, and Johnny Lucas, all members of last year's squad. An abundance of new talent was present also, with John Givens, Ronnie Rochelle, Bruce McLain, Tommy Stevenson, and Jeff Vining rounding out the powerful team.

Mr. Bill Smith took over coaching duties this year, being afforded the difficult task of finding the best four players from the group to represent Battle Ground in the regulation matches. The golf team compiled a respectable record and continued to uphold the honor of past teams.

Baseball

This spring, baseball began shortly after basketball season ended and while spring football was still in progress. During the time before Coach Cherry was able to work with the team, Tim Powers and Paul Muncy "coached" the boys who came out. Braving cold temperatures and gusty winds, about twelve boys came out to take batting practice and shag flies and grounders. When the weather was too dismal, the team stayed in the gym and loosened up their arms for a while and then engaged each other in basketball games for the remainder of the practice session. Most preseason practices consisted of warming up, jogging laps, picking up rocks from the infield (which abounds in geological specimens), hitting, and infield and outfield practices. The team worked diligently, though not always seriously, but it was just not the same without Coach Cherry and those football players who would be playing.

When the football crew did come out, a week before the season started, practices became more lively and spirited, although they were harder to endure as Coach Cherry ran the prospective players through several drills to get their lungs and legs in shape. Since hitting a baseball takes more skill and coordination than any other thing in sports, much time was devoted to developing players from "swinging gates" to strong hitters, Coach Cherry himself taking duty as batting practice pitcher. While one person was batting, there were usually several cliques in the outfield discussing such important subjects as girls, teachers, and television shows. If practice got especially dull, one could always turn around and watch the neighborhood kids playing basketball beyond the centerfield fence; the kids were always friendly and happy to chase homeruns for the baseball players too lazy to climb the fence.

Going into the year, the team had high hopes for a winning season. All the ingredients for a fine baseball team were present: good pitching, a tight defense, and strong hitting. The question was going to be whether or not Coach Cherry and the team could put all the potential together and produce a strong ball club. Pitching, 75% of a baseball game, was handled by returning letterman Tim Powers and first year man Meredith Shannon, with relief help from Billy Anderson. With Bill Smith at first, John Boyd at second base, Nate Greene at shortshop, and Paul Muncy at third base, the Wildcats expected a strong infield, both defensively and offensively. The outfield held the key to the year; if Eddie Roberts, Rick Bennett, and John Lykins could come through, the team would be solid. Since the yearbook goes to press before the season begins, the won-lost record is still a matter for speculation; but, if the team members can work together, and the team gets a few breaks, the hopes for a winning season will be realized, along with a possible district title and a place in the regional tournament.

Athletic Director

In charge of the overall athletic program of Battle Ground Academy for 1968-69 was its capable athletic director, Mr. Jimmy Gentry. In addition to his duties as science teacher, Mr. Gentry, as athletic director, was involved in scheduling games, meets, and scrimmages for the teams of BGA. The athletic director is in a position of great responsibility, for he must see to it that each varsity, junior varsity, freshman, and sub-freshman team in every sport has an ample supply of contests with other schools. Coach Gentry spends a large amount of time on the telephone to other schools and on working out the various schedules for each season; he must coordinate the activities of the teams so that they do not conflict with each other and, as much as possible, will not interfere with other student activities. In filling his role as athletic director as well as varsity football coach and varsity wrestling coach, Mr. Gentry has spent many hours working for the athletes of BGA and deserves the gratitude of all the students of Battle Ground.

Student Council

Student Body President Bill Armistead

The members of the Student Council, elected in the spring of each year, carry the responsibility of leading and directing their fellow seniors and the underclassmen. This responsibility was met by occasional meetings with the student body and somewhat more frequent private meetings with Mr. Akin. Meetings with the student body were concerned with the usual problems of any school: cheating, drinking, smoking, and writing on the walls. Problems of a more specific nature were brought by the students to a council member and then discussed at one of the private sessions, at which time the council was usually told why the situation was the way it was and why it would remain so. The council discussed concrete questions such as girl cheerleaders and book-borrowing as well as problems such as school spirit and pride which were not so easy to pin down. Mostly, little in the way of actual change was accomplished by the meetings, for it always seemed that the problem could best be handled by the individual students or that the final decision must come from elsewhere than the council.

The other, less pleasant, task of the Student Council was to sit in on matters of discipline, usually to help ascertain the just punishment for the offender. A report of the offense was given by the faculty discipline committee, the facts were reported, the offender was heard, and the Honor Council adjourned to discuss the situation among themselves. After deciding on a course of action, the council would return with a recommendation for the faculty which may or may not have been accepted by them. Fortunately, serious discipline problems were few this year as no wholesale cheating ring or mass stealing scandal was discovered.

The boys on the Student Council were, however, very much aware of their responsibilities and their duties; they were elected on the basis of scholarship, leadership, activity, and integrity and felt the need to live up to the dignity of their position. Each member has given of himself, his talents, and his abilities in serving on the council this year and deserves the honor and respect ascribed him by his office.

Key Club

The Key Club this year continued to contribute its services to the school and the community. As in the past, the concession stands were efficiently operated by responsible Key Clubbers; and a variety of drinks, ranging from chocolate milk to orangeade were sold during the lunch periods. The Christmas drive for needy families received a great deal of support, and as a result many clothes and toys were presented to the underprivileged families of Franklin.

The Key Club progressed in other ways, too. For the first time, sophomore members were inducted into the club. The outstanding sophomores selected were Stack Scoville, Houston Moran, Turner Snodgrass, and Brad Thomason.

Also, this year's Key Club became more active with their sponsor, the Woodbine Kiwanis Club. Several times throughout the year, members from the BGA club attended the meetings of the Kiwanians. Here, many things were learned about conducting business.

The year went on, and finally the District Convention arrived. It was held in Knoxville, and this year's President, Steve Dudley, and next year's President, Bob McClanahan, both attended. The Kiwanis Club was very kind in that they financed the trip for both members.

At the close of the year, the new officers were sworn in, and a fresh group of promising new members took over.

Beta Club

The National Beta Club is an honorary society organized for the purpose of awarding those students who strive for excellence in their academic undertakings. To become a member of the Beta Club Chapter at Battle Ground Academy, students must attain an average of 87 in each subject one semester. After the student has joined the society, he must maintain the required standards throughout the year in order to keep his privileges. The main objective of the Beta Club is to instill in its members a sense of pride in achievement, honor in scholarship, and desire in leadership.

At BGA Beta Club membership means that one is not required to be present in study hall and may study anywhere on campus. The traditional meeting place of the Beta Club is in the commissary where members can do homework, shoot the breeze, or kill time in general. For the cost of membership dues the Beta Club member is entitled to a membership card, a Beta Club pin, a subscription to the Beta Club Journal, and an opportunity to get out of study hall.

A new organization at Battle Ground, the National Honor Society, has been organized this year as a sister organization of the Beta Club. Under the sponsorship of the National Association of Secondary School Principals, the National Honor Society is for juniors, seniors, and a select group of sophomores who demonstrate scholarship, leadership, and citizenship in their school lives. Each nominee for the organization must have an 87 average in each course for one semester and must be approved by the Faculty Council of Battle Ground. The newly named Daly Thompson Chapter of the National Honor Society, under the supervision of Mr. Cobb, should prove to be a step forward for the school and a valuable addition to the extracurricular activities of Battle Ground.

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes is an organization designed to bring together the athletes of Battle Ground to talk seriously about their faith and their responsibility to the school and the community. In the past, when the first F.C.A. meeting was called, there seemed to be an extraordinarily large number of Christian athletes in the student body. This year, however, the meetings were held in the morning before school, and the number of participants was noticeably diminished. There were fewer huddle groups this year, but they were more meaningful to those involved.

The huddle groups met every Wednesday morning to discuss different topics. One was made to think about Christ, school life, home life, and himself. The F.C.A.'ers as individuals tried to learn how to relate their faith; the F.C.A.'ers as a troup tried to be relevant to Battle Ground. For those who attended F.C.A. meetings, Wednesday devotional was something special.

Social Committee

The Social Committee this year has operated somewhat differently than in the past. Membership was reduced from twenty-four to nine members with meetings at regular intervals. The senior members, Josh Huffman, Sam Brantley, Lewis Maddux, Ned McLeod, Denson Buttrey, and Bob Selph worked along with the junior members, Jim Beesley, Rick Bennett, and Mark Schwartz. Sponsored by Mr. Danny Allen and Mr. Rodney Rogers and headed by Jim Beesley, the Social Committee endeavored to provide the students of Battle Ground with dances and parties. The Committee went to great lengths to obtain good combos, which would be acceptable to the students, and spent many hours decorating the bleak gym to make it presentable. They announced, cajoled, persuaded, posted, and otherwise encour-aged people to participate in the social functions. Through their untiring efforts, B.G.A. was provided with many fine dances and combos.

The first function which the Social Committee arranged was the annual "Meet the Franklin Girls" dance for the boarders. This combo gave the new boarders a chance to meet the lovely array of Franklin belles for the first time and the older students a chance to renew old acquaintances and speak to the girls whom they hadn't seen since last year's dance. Next on the social calendar was the homecoming dance at which the Exotics played before a full house following the Murfreesboro football game. Because of several conflicts, the Christmas Dance was pre-empted this year, but there were dances and combos following some of the basketball games. These combos helped promote spirit at the basketball games and were very well attended. The Valentine's Dance, arranged to compensate for the lack of a Christmas Dance, was held in February after a week's delay due to the snow. Entertained by the Precious Few, a large crowd danced at the gym for four hours and went away with praises for the night's event. The final event of the year, the Spring Formal honoring the seniors, was held in May. The dance was a success, due to the hard work and careful planning of the juniors along with the cooperation of the Social Committee.

The '68-69 Wildcat started off as usual, with no noticeable changes; but soon a new look came over the Battle Ground newspaper. Published for the first time by the staff was the Tiger Lily, a circular containing exposés of certain faculty members. Amidst the learned literature were mingled jokes and false stories. Sometimes the jokes were good, sometimes very bad; but they were always in good taste. Mr. Patterson saw to that.

Then there was the old Wildcat. It was not published as often as before, but the Tiger Lily filled the gap. The Wildcat was still filled with the real news of B.G.A., the sports results, the speech trips, the choir's activities, and all the other extracurriculars that were associated with Battle Ground.

Mr. Cobb remained the sponsor; he provided the essential link which kept the outfit running smoothly. David Gardner was the editor; he always had trouble finding time to work with his staff because of his other responsibilities. But somehow he always did. Bo Johnson served as the runner-up, coming in at the last minute with his copy. The office of sports fell to Jim Beesley.

Cannon Ball Staff

The story of the 1969 Cannon Ball could very well fill a number of volumes. From the beginning to the end, there was never a dull moment; but there was almost every other kind: tired moments, angry moments, confused moments, and a handful of others. But through it all emerged a finished book. We of the staff are still wondering how that happened. Anyway, when the last pages disappeared in the hands of the printer, mixed emotions were scattered about. Relief, of course. But still a feeling of strangeness about not going below sea level each afternoon to reach the publications room. We kept one motive in mind as the year went on: to try to please everybody, at least partly. Successful or not, the 1969 CANNON BALL now remains to be passed around for autographs and placed on the shelf with the past yearbooks.

At the first of the year, the publications room little resembled a constructing parlor for a yearbook. But time moved on, and gradually an enormous pile of pictures began to accumulate. Soon they were all over the place, along with copy sheets, coke bottles and various other debris. Mr. Patterson always told the staff to keep the room clean; but since it took nearly a week to tidy up and only fifteen minutes to mess up, he finally gave up. Some nights the room served as a dining room, especially on the "deadline nights." Needless to say, those endurance marathons became objects of dread. The photographers really had the big load; they not only had to work in tiny quarters, but bear the "hurry up, we're behind" from the editors as well. Occasionally, Mr. Patterson would lay it on the line; no homework was done on these nights.

Sponsor Don Patterson

All in the line of work?

This year's book was the product of many ideas from many people. The door to the room was almost always open, and several times, non-staff members would wander in, to the horror of Richard, who would quickly evict them. But credit must be given to the tireless hours spent by the staff. Bob Selph was the captioning artist, coming to our aid during the staff's mental lapses. Bill Armistead, Skip Beadle, Ned McLeod, and Dwight Lanier took honors in the odd job category. There were many others without whose help the book would have never been finished. Paul Muncy was the business manager, and he served as assistant editor as well. Last but not least was our sponsor, Mr. Patterson. He was our resort when our technical knowledge failed. Sometimes there were disagreements, but he took care of those.

Undoubtedly, the yearbook got in the way of the teachers sometimes. Students were removed from classes and many times the staff had to miss entire periods. Of all the periods, it somehow seemed that P.E. got the worse absentee list

During the 1968-1969 school year, the speech program at BGA was greatly expanded in order to place more emphasis on performances before large audiences. Material that heretofore had been used only in competition was performed on stage for pure entertainment. One of the main formats of the speech depart-ment was to convey the idea that not only plays but all forms of literature were written to be performed. A second goal of the instructors was to present the unfamiliar forms in such a manner that it opened up a whole new dimension of speech to both the student body and the parents. This was keenly observed in the reception the students and parents gave the program presented at BGA on February 13th, 1969. Moreover, the speech program attempted to give the student body a new evaluation of all the dramatic arts; but in particular that of poetry was seen to come of age at Battle Ground this past year.

Another objective of the drama program was to teach the performers that the audience was not something to be feared, but someone who sought to know. In accordance, their primary function was to educate and/or entertain.

Drama

The department consisted of several component sections. For the first time ever, the freshman speech class produced their own play. Although it was originally intended only for production at BGA, the performance turned out so well that the school entered the play in the district tournament. At its first performance on February 13th, Mike Brown received the award for the best performance given. The other members of the drama section produced the play, "Twelve Angry Men", in the latter part of the year.

The extemporaneous speaking section, which dealt with current events on the national level, was well represented by Douglas Berry, Bill Smith, and Sam Jack Brantley. It was the purpose of this section to teach the presentation of a speech on short notice with the logical analysis of a subject.

As in the past, our speech team again traveled to Emory University in Atlanta, Georgia, to participate in the Barkley Forum, an exclusive debate tournament in which only topranked schools are allowed to participate. During the year, Jack Howser managed to complete the requirements for eligibility in the National Forensic League Tournament. Even though the usual time required to acquire the necessary two hundred and fifty points in four years, Jack managed to do it in only three.

All the varsity debaters handled themselves admirably in the dozen or so tournaments this year. Bob McClanahan and Jack Howser brought back a second place trophy from the district debate tournament. In addition, Hanes Sparkman won the first place trophy for humorous interpretation. All three boys went on to represent us in the state tournament.

At the end of the year, the speech program seemed to accomplish most of its objectives. Their only regret was that they had to postpone some changes intended for 1968-1969 for the future because they just couldn't fit them into their schedule.

Cheerleaders

It is the job of the cheerleaders to instill spirit into the school and, with the crowd, to provide noisy support for the athletic teams of Battle Ground. This is a most difficult task when a team is having a losing season, because the crowds are often small and quiet. Such was the lot of the 1968-69 cheerleaders. The football cheerleaders, Jimmy Witherspoon, Tim Powers, Rob Anderson, John Simpson, Rick Francis, Dick Lewis, Rick

Bennett, and Richard Katzoff braved cold weather, rain, distance, and overwhelming scores to cheer the football team on. The ranks of the basketball cheerleaders were, for the first time in several years, blessed with the presence of girls, Retha Rudolph, Miriam Woods, and Ruthie Brown, who, along with Charley Benz, Steve Horn, Chris Dodson, Paul Muncy, and Dick Lewis, lent vocal support to the Battle Ground basketball team.

Plato officers and Mr. Akin choose new members at assembly.

Platos

This year new interest was aroused in the Plato-Greer competition through the choosing of new members in assembly. Under the direction of Mr. Akin, the officers of the two societies chose new members amid a tumult of shouts and cheers from the student body.

Competition between the two societies began earlier than usual when the ticket sales for the car raffle was set up as a contest, with a banner going to the winner. Mr. Cobb was in charge of the ticket sales for the Greers as was Mr. Cherry for the Platos. These men were ably assisted in the supervision of ticket sales by Greer President Harry Blackburn and Plato President Mike Williams.

Greers

Later in the Spring, all athletic events were held between the two groups under the direction of Mr. Reynolds. Points were awarded to the winners of track, wrestling, swimming, basketball and softball. No matter who had the most points at the time of the tug of war, the winner of that event won in overall competition.

The tug of war took place in late May at the banks of the Harpeth River, a few miles out of Franklin. A rope was stretched across the river, we raised it, and waited intensely for the signal from Mr. Akin. As the crowd cheered, the better of the two societies pulled the other across the river amid grunts and groans from the losers.

Big "O" starts the hundred-yard dash in Greer-Plato competition.

Men's Club

For the first time in several years Battle Ground Academy has an active Men's Club. Organized at the first of the year by Mr. Akin and several interested parents, the Men's Club has as its officers Reese Smith, President; John Moran, Treasurer; Stewart Bronaugh, Secretary; Ralph Harrison, Vice-President. The goals of the Men's Club are threefold: (1) To work with the faculty and student body on special projects. (2) To draw the parents of the students into a closer unit. (3) To aid in the school spirit and overall welfare of Battle Ground Academy.

Through the outstanding leadership of its officers the Men's Club has been active in its first year, having donated money to the library and sponsored a fund-raising jamboree in the spring. In the years ahead Battle Ground can look forward to closer relationships between the parents, students, and faculty.

Women's Auxiliary

The Ladies Auxiliary of Battle Ground Academy, this year under the leadership of Mrs. Charles Warfield, has made great strides toward stimulating and maintaining interest in Battle Ground Academy. By the creation of twelve standing committees, the Auxiliary intends to be a part of all facets of Battle Ground's activities. Working with Mrs. Warfield are Mrs. Hugh Howser, Vice-President; Mrs. Tom Harlin, Secretary; and Mrs. James Crowell, Treasurer. The Ladies Auxiliary worked hand in hand with the Men's Club on the Jamboree this spring and will work closely with the Men's Club on future projects for the betterment of Battle Ground Academy.

B.G.A. Jamboree Day

One of the highlights of 1969 was the Jamboree Auction Day held on Friday April 25th. This was the exciting renovation of the auctions held at BGA many years ago.

Activities began in the early afternoon. Competition with visiting schools in baseball, tennis, and track was offered to the sports enthusiasts.

Game booths and food booths added extra enjoyment to the day.

Later in the day, an auction was held in the gym with Fulton Beasley, well known Franklin auctioneer, in charge.

The Jamboree reached its climax with the delicious fish fry dinner and the drawing for the beautiful Dodge GTS. This was a long anticipated event as the Plato-Greer ticket sales competition brought much excitement to the raffle.

Proceeds from the Jamboree will be used to improve BGA's physical plant.

Our thanks go to the Men's Club, the Ladies Auxiliary, and the Alumni Association for sponsoring that fun-filled day.

The Men's Club and Ladies Auxiliary express their thanks to the following groups for their most generous contributions:

Meadow Gold Ice Cream Co., Ice Cream
Purity Dairies Inc., Milk
Lunn and Associates, Fish
Rascoe-Clark Co., Hush Puppies
The Kroger Co., Buns

Dormitory Proctors

Mr. Smithson took over the responsibility of the dormitories this year, succeeding Mr. Patterson. Hoping to eliminate the need of proctors in the dorms, Mr. Smithson placed the boarders on a modified honor system. He expected the common sense of the students, strengthened by the omnipresent fear of "the wasp", to insure order in the dorms. The weak-willed and mischievous boarders, however, failed to live up to his expectations. Numerous and repeated breaches of conduct, from orange-peel fights to firecracker wars, forced Mr. Smithson to revert back to the time-honored tradition of proctors.

At the end of the first semester, the faculty chose the proctors who would serve for the remainder of the year. Seven seniors: Brantley, Wright, Isaacson, Lucas, Gardner, Simpson, and Henry, along with two juniors, Ross and Miner, were chosen. A few minor incidents, such as urchins challenging Gomer, marred the initial days; but these problems were quickly overcome. Once again the dorms at Battle Ground are patrolled by fearless, ruthless enforcers of law and order; and, at last, all is well.

Proctors meet with sponsor.

... 9 am Youth and 9 long to be a part of Student Life...

Summer was a blast and we enjoyed it. But all good things come to an end, and, much to our dismay, August came and went, and September arrived.

September 9. Registration. That desperate rush to get all the required books, to schedule classes, to avoid P.E. if possible, and to schedule lunch at the first period available. The time had come to recognize and greet the old students and teachers and to meet and evaluate the new ones. On the wall hung the picture of the class of '68, still remembered, but, almost unsympathetically, mere history to the new arrivals. And let's not forget the familiar landmarks of the school: the war musuem, with relics dating from before the Civil War up to the present crisis in Vietnam; the commissary, scene of much after school loitering; the library, with its stereo headsets which allowed the latest hits to be played in secrecy; and last, but far from least, the study hall, an immortal memorial to the closeness of the students that are B.G.A., past, present, and fu-

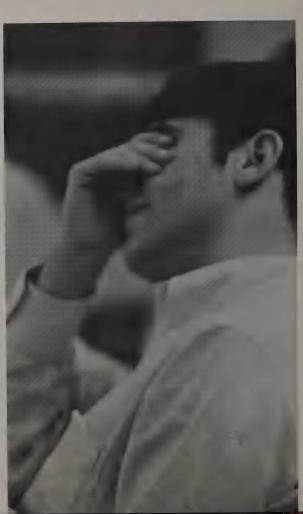

For one group of fifty-six boys the return was not quite as painful because it was the last time. The seniors were soon to be involved in their final year of work before they had to face the awesome reality of college and life.

School began soon after. The first days, as always, were filled with confusion. But things gradually settled down, and everyone was abruptly reminded of the main function of BGA: education. There was homework and more homework; by all reasonable estimates enough to keep one busy for at least two years. But we did it, or tried to do it, and soon the assignments began to be taken for granted.

The gym buzzed with life after school, as all the athletic teams resumed practice. It was easier if one was occupied all the time. There was no time to regret the end of summer. As routine settled into oblivion, the year wore on.

Friday nights were always good. Freedom for the weekend made everyone ecstatic. The football games did not end in victory, but there was satisfaction in knowing a good effort had been given by the team.

Afterwards came the dances, a welcome change from the gloomy proceedings on the athletic field. The bands were sometimes questionable but always loud. Homecoming was different; the Exotics entertained after that game. Everyone agreed that they were the best; even the teachers danced.

As the season wore on, everyone looked forward to new seasons with better results.

As the year progressed, those of us who lived in the dorm had a good time, especially after lights. Countless feats were performed and often the culprits were caught red-handed. Nobody was safe from the threat of possible discovery. And weekend leaves were cancelled in an often futile attempt to quiet things down. And then there were the afternoons after school. Music blared from radios and stereos. Continuous card games were played, and "Smooth" entertained with his liberal interpretations of soul. Oliver, "the Yellow Butterfly" carried on an incessant battle with the "Moth." But everywhere May was anticipated with impatience.

Athletics were not entirely successful, as far as the won-lost column is concerned. In every sport, this was a rebuilding year. In football, basketball, and wrestling, many underclassmen gained valuable experience. But the future began to look brighter.

These athletic records were not indicative of spirit or effort by any means. No one lagged; everyone did his part. It was usually a case of being outmanned. This is a part of athletics, and eventually we will again be the victors, the unconquerable foe. So runs the cycle.

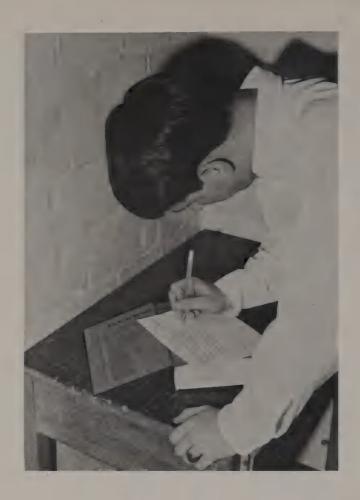

Perhaps the most fretful event of the day was the long walk from P.E., especially if you were late to an important class. This was often the case, due to the forgetfulness of all parties involved. Many dramatic late entrances were made after the last bell. But if you were lucky, lunch came next, and the walk became a leisurely stroll.

Lunch was an occasion to behold. The seniors exercising one of their many privileges, were able to go first in line, and it was often amusing to watch the urchins scramble to get behind the last one. Afterwards, conversation was varied, and most people usually went to the commissary or to study hall.

A familiar sight during both lunch periods was the crowd milling around the mail window, where all personal mail was delivered. Everyone checked, and often the signs of disappointment were evident when that letter failed to come.

Friday came. although many swore it must have been at least a day late. Assembly was restless, the back of study hall unmanageable. But no harm was meant and the faculty was mercifully lenient. After school came the check-out line, and Mr. Patterson sighed with relief as Oliver, Anderson, Hasty, and McGinnis checked out. Then there was the Exodus, almost as if it were a release from a long confinement. Classes were forgotten and everyone anticipated Saturday night.

An important step was taken to revitalize school spirit. For the first time in five years, the girl cheerleaders were chosen. Retha Rudolph, Miriam Woods, and Ruthie Brown carried on this renewed tradition in a commendable manner. Support picked up and the basketball team played better. After all, everyone wants to be a crowd pleaser. Basketball cheerleaders besides the three girls were Dick Lewis, Chris Dodson, Paul Muncy, Steve Horn and Charley Benz.

December 21, Christmas vacation. But more important, autumn is over. For those who keep score by seasons, the year was one third gone. We rejoiced, but still there was more to come. It could be endured, but only on a day by day basis.

There was weather, always unpredictable, usually disappointing. It rained. It hailed. It snowed, usually on a Monday, too late to keep the boarders at home. After school, snowball fights, the "oichins" versus the senior dorm. It is obvious who won.

Other sights were familiar. The bare trees, Mr. Smith playing with the dogs, Mr. Franklin pedaling to and from school, and the end of practice for the athletic teams. Here twenty or more boys emerged from the shadowy gym exhausted but jubilant because they were free until the next day.

After Christmas came exams: Those grueling reminders that school was not out. We studied, we sweated, we stayed up late, and finally, we took the tests. The exams in themselves were almost anticlimactic.

The waiting was the worst part. "Did I pass? Did I fail? How bad was it?" All these questions were asked and more. Failing students optimistically stated that they could make up the credit second semester, but they were really scared. And who wouldn't be, for it is easy to make a bad grade under such great pleasure. The task of settling back down to the grind was at hand.

The second semester started out with a snow that allowed the day students an extra day of vacation, as most of them were "stranded" on the slopes of Chickering Road.

In late January, Mr. Power again came, and that confusing chore of picture taking resumed. Often seen were Dudley and Katzoff running around as if in severe pain or confusion. Over 300 pictures were snapped and all of the major school activities were covered. In spite of the rough schedule, classes were carried on almost as usual. The senior members of the Cannonball staff could be thankful that it was over, but the juniors could only wait for the same occasion to occur the next year.

For most of the seniors, much effort was required to stay awake in English class, especially if it was the last class of the day. The windows were always closed, and the heat induced drowsiness in all the students present. But classes continued, and much was learned despite the often imperfect environment.

And there were the afternoon football games. Mostly the boarders played, but some day-students joined in. Teams were not always even, but everyone played hard. The game continued until 5:30, time to get ready for supper. Then there was the rush for the showers, the cold water, and often the expressions of contempt for the dorm as a result. These games were inconsequential, but no one involved will ever forget them.

One of the most popular items around the dorm was the telephone. It afforded everyone a link with home and, more important, direct communication with that special someone. Famous for their afternoon sessions were Powell, Oliver, and Lucas, who were often accused, unjustly of course, of violating the five minute rule imposed by Mr. Smithson. But usually everyone was considerate and there were few major arguments.

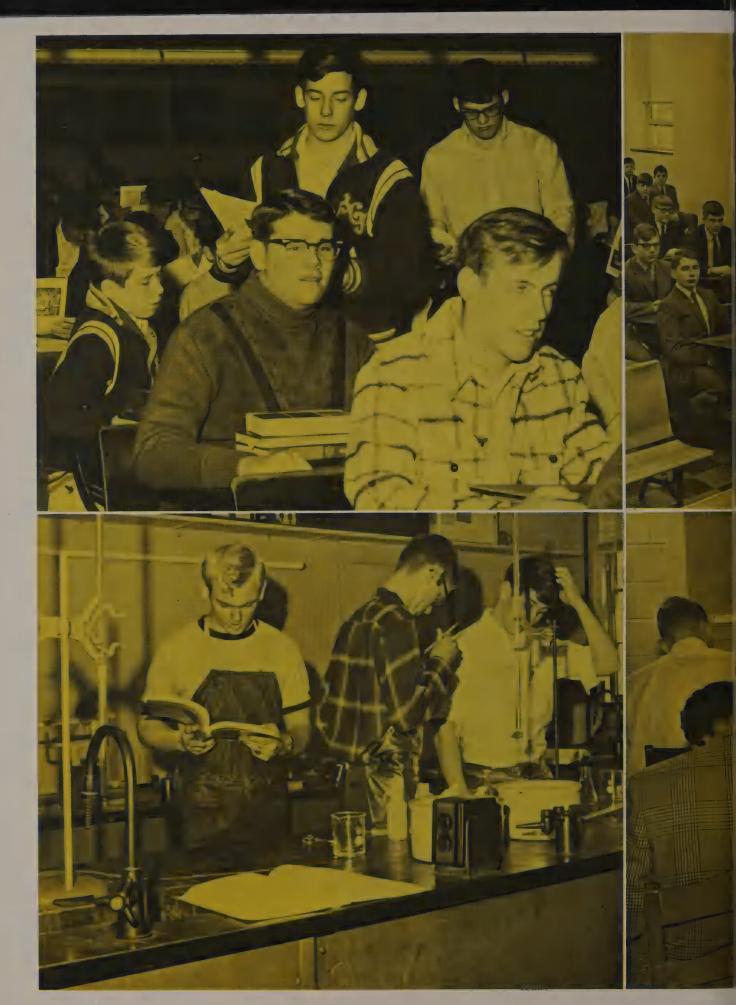

Impossible as it may seem, the class of '69 became nostalgiac as the year went on. The District basketball tournaments came, and the spirit of that great season a few years back was relived for a few short hours.

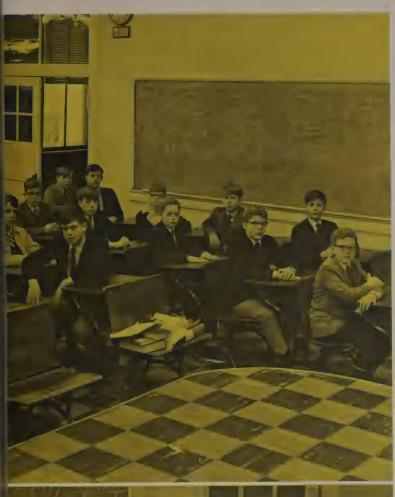

Although seeming insignificant, the greatest transition came when the seniors ordered graduation invitations and were measured for their caps and gowns. Soon after, the impatient juniors were measured for their senior rings; this was their first opportunity to act the part of their future role as seniors.

The year 1968-69 will long be remembered for many things. A new administration brought with it a new sense of school unity. The building was also remodeled to provide more practical office space. Papa Charlie died this year, and fewer and fewer cars went the back way through town.

If a vacant space is discovered, a new senior composite will soon be hanging amid the ones of years past. Chemistry, Advanced Math, the Cannonball, and all the other senior heartaches will be passed down to a new set of recruits.

I am Youth and I long to be a part of the Student Body

As a part of classes, idealistically I am an ambitious student who contributes more than that which is required. Realistically, this is not true.

Through educational stimulation and involvement, I hope to become a finer class member and classmate.

The Juniors

Go ahead. Introduce your favorite chicks.

You won't get your face slapped. Not this time.

Anytime is a good time for your favorite girl to meet Minnie Pearl's golden brown, country-fied chicken. Some afternoon after a swim. Or just before going to the show. Or after the combo.

So go ahead. Introduce your favorite chick to your favorite chicken. They'll get along great.

Fuzz, (molly B.'s got her grip on you, big un!)
This has really been a great year and next year should be even better. Rick, you are a great friend and I have really appreciated your friendship over the past four years. You have done a lot for me that I know about and much more that I don't know about, especially in $\Delta\Sigma$. I probably would have quit a long time ago if it hadn't been for you. Good luck in all your undertakings in the future, and I know you'll really be an asset to $\Delta\Sigma$ as secretary and to B.G.A. as V-P.

Thanks a million for being a friend to whom I can turn to often. Jack $\Delta\Sigma$ is present and yet...

Yes, I am Youth and I am a Paradox; a contradiction to myself, an enigma to others...
I am the eternal hope of the world.

Rick (Juzz) Rub, Been good tole in class on being the V.P. I know you can Thank you for giving me this important space in which to sign this annual. This is probably how you feel about do a good gol. Take care of your me too. Seriously I really appreciate your friendship (?) drawing pencel. Lee yo next year. Chris Sloss for me these past three years. Charledig with you, playing Tussy 'cally been great con knowing you though we have it

of year the have that he good wished we have the good basketball with you, and even wolking you play baseball have inspired me to greater heighte. Really Rick you have a lot gong for you in The Gow don't know it yet but good times. Keep up the good work in the round ball, you are V.P.) and don't let anyone keep you from gelling game it maybe we can do game thing thing student this surely or for see you alot The Ket it. Good luck with Molly (I know that she will probably read this so I shall write nothing vulgar) and well school ad basketball mext year ad I hope to get the pleasure of over gyor next year. Rick Francis DE is best keep it there tuggy, streon of Dood luck in basketball South the second of the second and baseball next year. I hope you have success in school next year. Fag

Oh kick I am going to miss you so much. Just think the he been just a crossreds in our lives .a clame muting, just think when you are old you can tell your dids that you knew d'in Powers. What a Thick. it will be for them. serious, Mow, I love really enjoyed the whole lit. Next year you want be able to get as math. Better lone up luddy. If you can drep sound out I trouble you my semeday mole me provd of you. I leave you in The capable hands of late and let that he enough of a warning. Considering energeting you are still a pretty good hid even though I have to pap you a couple times. I ale come course you just might end up at podent in a wursh years. dry + get the B- bull teams up. + har some confidence in you. God buch & take good care of Molf B. your eternatived
